"The mbira gatherings provide an opportunity to participate in a resemblance of life and culture in a Zimbabwean Village. The two very different environments and cultures, one from Southern Africa and the other from Northern Europe, are far apart and yet able to weave together in ways unimaginable. The people who travel from all over the world for these camps live as a family, sharing music, dance, song and crafts, eating together, exchanging thoughts and respecting the silence, as sleep and the natural world enfold and nurture until the next sunrise." Catherine Rose, a camp regular
